Redtrail – Safely supporting the telecoms industry.

REDTRAIL®

About Redtrail

Redtrail provides innovative and flexible last mile and last metre delivery solutions to the UK's mobile telecoms sector.

We own a fleet of specialist equipment and vehicles that allows us to offer bespoke solutions to our clients. Be that be a greenfield location requiring a 4x4 mounted lorry loader, a busy street works site requiring a compact lorry loader, or a city centre rooftop needing complex manual handling skills.

From our office and warehouse centrally located in the Midlands, we can manage, store, deliver and install any equipment currently being deployed by UK operators.

Our teams are multi-skilled, highly experienced in the telecoms industry and are familiar with all vendor equipment.

“ Redtrail are my first choice for any challenging deliveries ”

The Redtrail Way

- Innovative
- Flexible
- Professional
- Right First Time

Most importantly, everything we do has to be done safely.

When a customer needed to install an Ericsson RBS cabinet into a Vodafone cabin on the roof of a Holiday Inn in London, they wanted to avoid a crane due to the delays it would add to the programme getting a road closure on the A4 arterial road in West London. They approached Redtrail and we were able to deliver the equipment to the cabin internally through a very tight access hatch. This required a lifting frame to be set up on the roof of the building and the equipment was lifted on to the roof with a hauling system. The cabinet was then transported across to the Vodafone cabin with a stairwalker to overcome the steps on the access platform. This was completed by a 2 man team, on a weekday within a week of the survey being completed.

“ I first worked with Redtrail on one of our problem London sites. They completed a survey and very quickly provided an efficient solution which allowed us to install the equipment whilst minimising disruption to the road network, the local area, the site provider and the site provider's customers. Redtrail are my first choice now for any challenging deliveries. ”
